Background / Opening / Motivation/ Goals ...etc.

You have exactly 15 minutes to present your oral paper

Don't include too many slides. Keep it simple (max. 15 slides)

Start with the background information / motivation of your research / Why your study needs to be done? / Goals / etc. (using bullets / no text)

Attract the audience with a convincing motivation / open questions / the problem

Don't include too much text... Explain orally your findings... Try not to read from the screen!

Don't use too many colors and animations... Only if really needed!

Try to use the fonts / sizes displayed on this slide

Background / Opening / Motivation/ Goals/ Hypothesis

Follow these tips and try to cover these points

1. Organization (It is easy to follow?)
2. Visuals (Clear figures, layout, readable)
3. Presentation (Engaging, interesting, clear speech)
4. Technical level (Appropriate for student level)
5. Hypothesis (Stated clearly)
6. Methods (Concisely described and address the research hypothesis)
7. Results (Sufficient evidence to support conclusions)
8. Conclusions (Clear discussion of findings)
9. Future directions (Aims for further research)
10. Significance (Broader implications for clay science)

1. Methods

Heading /Calibri Regular 18pt/Charcoal

Paragraph text /Calibri Light 18pt/Charcoal

- Bulleted text /Calibri Light 18pt/Charcoal.
- Bulleted list level one text
 - Bulleted list level two text
 - Bulleted list level three
